General Marking Principles for Higher Art and Design

This information is provided to help you understand the general principles you must apply when marking candidate responses to questions in this paper. These principles must be read in conjunction with the Detailed Marking Instructions, which identify the key features required in candidate responses.

- (a) Marks for each candidate response must always be assigned in line with these General Marking Principles and the Detailed Marking Instructions for this assessment.
- (b) Marking should always be positive. This means that, for each candidate response, marks are accumulated for the demonstration of relevant skills, knowledge and understanding: they are not deducted from a maximum on the basis of errors or omissions.
- (c) It is possible that some candidates could have studied artists and designers that are not known to the Marker. In such cases, Markers are expected to research the artists/designers before marking the response.
- (d) The questions are designed to allow as broad a range of responses as possible, taking account of the varied scope for learning about artists' and designers' work and practice across the Course. Markers should consider the extent to which the candidate's response answers the specifics of the question and to what extent it demonstrates knowledge and understanding of art and design content and context.
- (e) In questions 1, 2, 5 and 6, no marks should be awarded for simply repeating information from the legend. If candidates develop this information in their answer, credit can be given for that development.
- (f) All questions require candidates to respond in an extended response format. Mark allocations may be fully accessed whether responses are provided in continuous prose, linked statements or a series of developed points.
- (g) Points do not need to be made in any particular order, and candidates may provide a number of developed points or a smaller number of points in depth, or a combination of these.
- (h) Marks are awarded only for a valid response to the question asked. For example, in response to questions that ask candidates to:
 - Describe, they must provide a statement or structure of characteristics and/or features.
 - Explain, they must relate cause and effect and/or make relationships between things clear.
 - Discuss, they must communicate ideas and information on a subject. To gain marks, points made must be relevant to the question asked, and must reference social and cultural influences and the art and design element(s) specified in the question.

Below are examples of how some of the available marks could be allocated in different parts of the 20 mark questions:

EXPRESSIVE ART STUDIES

SECTION 1

QUESTION 4

(b) Explain the influence of social, cultural and/or other factors on any of the art work(s) discussed.

Part (a) of this question asks candidates to select art works relevant to the statement: artists are creative in different ways. The candidate's response discussed wall art from Ancient Egypt and Banksy's graffiti/street art. This is an excerpt from a full candidate response to part (b).

The way figures are represented in Ancient Egyptian art was controlled by a formula dictated by the state and artistic convention. Banksy's graffiti art however, expresses his own views which challenge those of the establishment and authority. One art form encourages obedience, respect and adulation whereas the other challenges authority and encourages anarchy. With both Ancient Egyptian art and Banksy, it is the message that is more important than the artists, who are anonymous. Public access to Egyptian art was limited to the ruling classes as it was nearly always on the walls of temples and tombs. Banksy's work is easily seen as it is on the walls of public and private buildings such as shops, houses and lock-ups.

The way figures are represented in Ancient Egyptian art was controlled by a formula dictated by the state and artistic convention.	1 mark for a point of information (influence of the monarchy and government).
Banksy's graffiti art however, expresses his own views which challenge those of the establishment and authority.	1 mark for a point of information (influence of political opinion).
One art form encourages obedience, respect and adulation, whereas the other challenges authority and encourages anarchy.	1 mark for a point of information (Influence of the monarchy and political ideas).
With both Ancient Egyptian art and Banksy, it is the message that is more important than the artists who are anonymous.	1 mark for a point of information (influence of personal identity or the lack of it).
Public access to Egyptian art was limited to the ruling classes as it was nearly always on the walls of temples and tombs. Banksy's work is easily seen as it is on the walls of public and private buildings such as shops, houses and lock-ups.	1 mark for a point of information (influence of social structure/classes).

DESIGN STUDIES

SECTION 2

QUESTION 8

(a) Select design work(s) that are relevant to the statement: successful design looks good and works.

Discuss the style and/or fitness for purpose of the design work(s).

This is an excerpt from a candidate's full response. The candidate discussed two examples of graphic design in the full response to part (a).

To be effective graphic designers need their designs to look good and be appealing. For example, Neville Brody's posters for the Hollywood movies 'Oceans 11' and 'Oceans 12' use bold simplified silhouettes against a plain background to attract attention. The combination of strong black silhouettes, an unusual and dynamic composition and limited choice of colour, creates a striking abstract image. The same regular, bold upper case text which lists the cast in the movies appears in both posters. The numbers 11 and 12 in both posters are shown from different viewpoints and draw attention to the limited text and information.

Graphic designers want their designs to look good and appeal to be effective.	No mark. This is simply a lead in to the candidate response.
For example, Neville Brody's posters for the Hollywood movies 'Oceans 11' and 'Oceans 12' use bold simplified silhouettes against a plain background to attract attention.	1 mark for a point of information (style).
The combination of strong black silhouettes, an unusual and dynamic composition and limited choice of colour, creates a striking abstract image.	1 mark for a development point (style).
The same regular, bold upper case text which lists the cast in the movies, appears in both posters.	1 mark for a point of information (fitness for purpose).
The numbers 11 and 12 in both posters are shown from different viewpoints and draw attention to the limited text and information.	1 mark for a development point (fitness for purpose).

(i) In the Expressive Art Studies questions, where the term 'artist' is used it should be interpreted in its broadest sense, covering painting, printmaking, photography, sculpture, installation, animation, film and video etc. It is acceptable for candidates to refer to groups of artists rather than individuals, eg art movements or artists who work in pairs/groups such as Surrealism, Jake and Dinos Chapman, the Boyle family.

In the Design Studies questions, the term 'designer' should also be inclusive of any form of design. It is acceptable for candidates to refer to design movements, pairs/groups of designers such as Art Deco, Alessi or Timorous Beasties or collections of designs (particularly in fashion/textiles answers) such as The Pirate Collection by Westwood.

Marking Instructions

Section 1	Max marks	Expected response	Additional guidance
Question 1	10	Candidates will respond to either Question 1 or Question 2. Question 1 and Question 2 are designed to assess candidates' ability to respond critically to a selected image using descriptive visual language. Candidate responses can be credited in a number of ways. All points must relate to the question posed. In the first part of Question 1, candidates are asked to describe the artist's consideration of mood and atmosphere and use of media . 1 mark should be awarded for any valid point of description of these features, up to a maximum of 6 marks. A point of description is a statement or structure of characteristics and/or features. Where candidates only refer to either mood and atmosphere or use of media in their response, a maximum of 4 marks should be awarded out of the available 6 marks.	 Description of the artist's consideration of mood and atmosphere and use of media might include the following points: Consideration of mood and atmosphere lonely isolated subject is lost in her thoughts, perhaps thinking about death two sets of shoes facing each other indicate subject is not alone sad, vulnerable, hands in pockets shows a very protective pose reflective mood set by abbey ruins and graveyard wet, dreich, cold and miserable Any other valid points describing the artist's consideration of mood and atmosphere in the work. Use of media selection/collection of arranged photographs collaged together strange perspective, creating cubist-like appearance false foreshortening of the small figure created by multiple high viewpoints the cross shape created by the overall image echoes the religious ruins and graveyard setting fragmented image emphasised by dark mount Any other valid points describing the artist's use of media in the work.

Section 1	Max marks	Expected response	Additional guidance
		In the second part of the question, candidates are asked to explain how the combined consideration of mood and atmosphere and use of media contributes to the artist's response to the subject . There are 4 marks available for this part of the question. 1 mark should be awarded for each valid point of explanation up to a maximum of 4 marks . A point of explanation will relate cause and effect, and/or make relationships between things clear.	 Explanation of ways in which the combined consideration of mood and atmosphere and use of media contributes to the artist's response to the subject might include the following points: figure lost in her thoughts about death is emphasised by collaged cross shape and religious setting the inclusion of the photographer's shoes as part of the collage, creates his connection with the subject figure's vulnerability is emphasised by high (multi) viewpoints and exaggerated foreshortening the subject's preoccupation and lack of eye contact is captured as a moment in time through photography the miserable weather and fragmented image against the dark background expresses sympathy with the subject Any other valid points of explanation. Note that for a mark to be awarded, the point of explanation must relate to ways in which the consideration of mood and atmosphere and use of media contribute to the artist's response to the subject.
Question 2	10	Candidates will respond to either Question 1 or Question 2. Question 1 and Question 2 are designed to assess candidates' ability to respond critically to a selected image using descriptive visual language. Candidate responses can be credited in a number of ways. All points must relate to the question posed.	 Description of the artist's use of composition and tone in this work might include the following points: Use of composition dramatic and dynamic use of curved diagonal composition painted shelf creates balance by echoing the hanging fruit and vegetables large areas of negative space hanging fruit and vegetables create tension and height in the composition Any other valid points describing the artist's use of composition in this work.

Section 1	Max marks	Expected response	Additional guidance
		In the first part of Question 2, candidates are asked to describe the artist's use of composition and tone . 1 mark should be awarded for any valid point of description of these features, up to a maximum of 6 marks . A point of description is a statement or structure of characteristics and/or features. Where candidates only refer to either the artist's use of composition or tone in their response, a maximum of 4 marks should be awarded out of the available 6 marks. In the second part of the question, candidates are asked to explain how the combined use of composition and tone contributes to create visual impact in this work. There are 4 marks available for this part of the question. 1 mark should be awarded for each valid point of explanation up to a maximum of 4 marks . A point of explanation will relate cause and effect, and/or make relationships between things clear.	 Use of tone realistic and convincing objects look 3D directional light/spotlight/candlelight creates depth strong dramatic contrast between foreground and background tone and shading describe the surface texture of the objects Any other valid points describing the artist's use of tone in the work. Explanation of ways in which the combined use of composition and tone creates visual impact in this work, might include the following: dramatic tonal contrast and simple arrangement of objects create impact placing of objects on a deep shelf lit by strong light gives the look of a stage realistic textural approach to objects creates a dynamic composition create impact tonal strength of each freestanding object creates a dynamic composition Any other valid points of explanation. Note that for a mark to be awarded, the point of explanation must relate to ways in which the combined use of composition and tone creates visual impact in this work.

Section 1	Max marks	Expected response	Additional guidance
Question 3	20	Candidates will respond to either Question 3 or Question 4. When candidates are asked to 'discuss', this means that they need to communicate ideas and information on a subject. The purpose of the statement is to require candidates to select appropriately from their body of knowledge and understanding about specific art work(s) and the influence of social, cultural and/or other factors on the art work.	 3D). These questions are designed to allow candidates to demonstrate breadth and/or depth of knowledge and understanding about artists' work and practice. Marks can be credited in a number of ways. For example, candidates can access full marks by referring in greater detail to an artist and associated art work, or by referring to the works of a larger number of artists/art works. Where a number of points are made, these do not need to be in any particular order. Candidates may provide a number of separate points or a smaller number of developed points, or a combination of these
		To gain maximum marks candidates must successfully respond to all features of the question. Candidates will:
		 (a) Select art work(s) that are relevant to the statement: art provokes a reaction. Discuss the artist's(s') use of subject matter and/or mood and atmosphere in the art work(s). (10 marks) 	Up to a maximum of 10 marks: 1 mark should be awarded for each clear and relevant idea or point of information. Any of these can then be developed for additional marks. Additional information on awarding marks for this type of question is provided in the General Marking Principles.

Section 1	Max marks	Expected response	Additional guidance
		(b) Explain the influence of social, cultural and/or other factors on any of the art work(s) discussed. (10 marks)	Up to a maximum of 10 marks: 1 mark should be awarded for each clear and relevant point of explanation. Any of these can then be developed for additional marks. Additional information on awarding marks for this type of question is provided in the General Marking Principles.
Question 4	20	Candidates will respond to either Question 3 or Question 4. When candidates are asked to 'discuss', this means that they need to communicate ideas and information on a subject. The purpose of the statement is to require candidates to select appropriately from their body of knowledge and understanding about specific art work(s) and the influence of social, cultural and/or other factors on the art work.	Candidate responses can be based on discussing any genre of work (2D and/or 3D). These questions are designed to allow candidates to demonstrate breadth and/or depth of knowledge and understanding about artists' work and practice. Marks can be credited in a number of ways. For example, candidates can access full marks by referring in greater detail to an artist and associated art work, or by referring to the works of a larger number of artists/art works. Where a number of points are made, these do not need to be in any particular order. Candidates may provide a number of separate points or a smaller number of developed points, or a combination of these. The choice of art work(s) must have relevance to the statement provided, to ensure that candidates are drawing selectively upon their body of knowledge and understanding. Candidate do not need to explain the relevance of their selection. If candidate responses reference art works or art movements that are not known to the marker, the marker must research the artists before marking the response.

Section 1	Max marks	Expected response	Additional guidance
		 To gain maximum marks candidates must successfully respond to all features of the question.
